Almost all of the live TV and streaming platforms nowadays have free trials on offer since they attract new customers and let them test their features, and Discovery Plus is one of these services. This is one of the newest names when it comes to streaming services on the market right now, and even though it does not offer as many things as its competitors, it has a really competitive price. It's only normal to look for a free trial before actually paying a subscription fee for one of the many live TV and streaming platforms currently on the market, so if you're thinking about becoming a Discovery Plus customer, we have all the information you may need regarding its free trial. Before we go any further, we'd like to remind you that the Discovery Plus streaming platform has geo-restrictions in place. Since this is a US service, it means the platform is blocked abroad, and you can create an account with the service, use the platform, or take advantage of any of its offers only while you are within the United States borders. Does Discovery Plus Have a Free Trial? Yes, at the moment, Discovery Plus has a free trial. In the US and Canada, the streaming platform has two paid tiers, and both of them come with free trials for new users; Discovery Plus monthly plan with ads Discovery Plus monthly plan without ads Student plan offer (the US only) Discovery+ is the home for channels like HGTV, Food Network, TLC, ID, Animal Planet, Discovery Channel and more. The standard offer we've seen until now is that Discovery Plus offers a 7-day free trial that you can get your hands on quite easily as long as you are a new customer. This trial is available and has the same length for both paid tiers and also for the student offer, so you can choose whichever you think suits you best. However, the length of the free trials may vary, so you may find different deals. To be sure, check their website when you decide to take advantage of the offer. How to Get Discovery Plus for Free?
